

Arbogast Performing Arts Center

In 2019, the founders of the APAC had a dream to bring a performing arts center to Troy, OH. They believed that this venue would bring new opportunities for education, creative expression, economic impact and community involvement.

From start to finish, our team orchestrated a comprehensive design and implementation of the AVL systems for the project. We began by partnering with architects and engineers in the design process and walked through the entire building process with the leadership team. We provided custom solutions to meet all of their AVL needs and commissioned their systems for their opening in 2021.

The board of directors for the APAC could not be more pleased with the results of the project. Their opening season was a huge success. Their goals of community pride, educational opportunities and economic growth are all being met as they continue to bring new performances into their space and allow others in the community to utilize the APAC for all sorts of community functions.
